It had a run of four hundred nights in London and is still running there. The scene is laid in the period of the Irish rebellion when bad rulers and absences landlords allowed their agents to grind the people to the dust, which caused them to rise under the name of Peep O'

The piece is Irish all over, and we have glimpse of the Fair, and see the lads,

"With their sprig of shillelah and shamrock so green, their Irish jigs, with frolic and fight, and their great reverence for the pricet, whose presence quelle the tumult and forms such a striking tableau in the second sot.

The creme de la creme of the piece is the great scene in the dark cave where Mullin attempts the murder of Kate Kavanaugh, after he has destroyed the bridge which cuts off her escape, and places her at his mercy. Her brother, however, at an opportune time, and witnessing the struggle of his sister for her life from the top of the cave, is almost distracted at finding the ed more than a thousand times its cost by every married climbs along a ledge of rocks until he reaches the branches of a projecting tree, and from this he makes a fearful leap through the air, reaching the ground in safety, and with a sudden blow from the spade with which Mullin had dug, as he thought, her grare, he strikes him to the earth and receives his fainting sister in his arms. forming a tableau which brings a hearty applause from the spell-bound audience, who are so deeply interested in the fate of Kathleen.

The entire play abounds in stirring scenes and life-like pictures, and has to be seen to be appreciated.

From New Orleans and Mexico. New York, March 10 .- The steamer Roanoke, from New Orleans, 1st and Havana 5th, has arrived. New Orleans advices contain nothing of great interest. An information has been filed in the provisional court for the confiscation of Slidell's property in New Orleans. Prisoners from the Queen of the West report they were jealously guarded at Alexan-dria, Ark., and robbed of all their clothes and rivate property.

The Era of the 1st states that twenty rebels who had recently been sent into the rebel lines, had returned, begging to take the oath of alle giance and for bread, every one of them suffer ing from actual hunger, and children crying for food. A rebel Major and Captain who had been paroled by Farragut returned to New Orleans and took the oath. The rebels would not receive them. All the above give fearful statements of destitution in rebeldom Vera Cruz advices received in New Orleans state the French army is entirely inactive, and not able to accomplish anything without further large reinforcements, which if soon received they must be driven from the country. French officers are disgusted. The climate is operating unfavorably on the soldiers.

Most of the French force at Vera Cruz is ne-groes from Muticique. The bulk of the French army is near Puebla The country between there and the city of Mexico is infested with guerrillas, well armed and mounted. A whole train of supplies from Vera Cruz for the French army was captured by guer rillas. The French are constructing a railroad to Puebla, and the guerrillas are amusing themselves by spreading the rails so as to run train off the track.

The report of a rebel advance up the She nandoah is contradicted A letter was sent bence to the President on Saturday from responsible persons, requesting him to grant them letters of marque. If granted a first class privateer will soon be off Nas-

Supposed Wreck of the Fiorida. NEW YORK, March 10 .- A fravana letter of he 5th says the schooner Ocean Herald, from Portland, reports seeing on the 24th ult., the wreck of a steamer painted black, off Abaco, twenty-two miles from the light house, her stern and two smoke stacks only visible, no signs of life near her. The same day the coner picked up two water casks. Nothing having been heard of the pirate Florida since the gunboat Sonoma chased her into a heavy gale about one hundred miles from Abaco, it was conjectured that the wreck might be that pirate. Nothing new at Havana.

HARPERS FERRY, March 10 -Great surprise s felt here at reports in Washington and elsequarter as well as hereabouts that may difiantly invite any attempt they can make upon us inless their whole army in front of Fredericks burg should be moved up, which it is well known that Hooker will not permit, even if the bad roads would.

Gen. Kelly is still in command under Gen. chenck, with a full force.
